

New Technologies

Today I used the object tag for the first time, I knew it before but never found it useful.

But today I thought that I will implement this in my portfolio page.

This page here, the blog page, uses this tag, so that I can call the individual blogs all together on the "same" page, this works only, because the object is considered as own page, and thus the links in there work only for the object. object, which means on the main page, you are not redirected.

I was planning to use this for my side-bar, but of course it had the problem that the links didn't work anymore, but only in the object element. so i didn't realize this idea.